Spring 2010

Dear Friends

Tuesday, January 12, 2010, marked a pivotal moment in the history of the White Bear Center for the Arts and surrounding community. White Bear City Council members (serving as the Housing Redevelopment Authority), unanimously approved a resolution allowing the White Bear Center for the Arts to build its future home in the Marina Village development. On behalf of the board of directors and members of the arts community, we are enormously grateful for this show of support. This is a once in a life-time opportunity to build a living legacy; one that will serve this community for many generations to come.

True to our mission of building community, this will be a place where community becomes an action, not just a thing; where community is created through exploration, conversation and participation. Whether your relationship to the arts is as a casual participant, or as a serious professional; this new home will expand opportunities for participation at every level. Through year-round art classes, expansive workshops, exhibitions, educational programs, special events and more, the White Bear Center for the Arts is sure to become a new creative hub; a place for all to come and enjoy the benefits of a vibrant and creative community.

There has never been a more exciting time to get involved with the White Bear Center for the Arts. As we move full-steam ahead with our planning and our capital campaign efforts, we need volunteers of all sorts, participants at every level, donations of all shapes and sizes. The true sign of a creative and culturally rich community is a community which, indeed, makes all things possible. We invite you to come and be a part of this community. Today, everything is possible!

Peace,

Suzi Hudson
